Course Objectives
The primary objective of this introduction to public relations course is to familiarize students with the basic concepts and principles of public relations. This course is also the foundation for other C of C courses in public relations (Comm 335-Public Relations Writing and Comm 435- Public Relations Campaigns) and a supplemental course for students majoring in communications studies. At the end of the course students should have attained knowledge and understanding of the following central concepts:

- The role and functions of public relations in an industrialized society
- The historical evolution of public relations, career opportunities in the field, and the professional, ethical and legal responsibilities of PR professionals
- An understanding of public relations activities in both PR firms and PR departments within corporations and other organizations
- The basic PR process (research, planning/action, communication, evaluation) and the use of communications strategies to achieve organizational goals
- Concepts of public relations, audience analyses, and persuasion
- Practical guidelines for utilizing written, spoken, and visual techniques to reach selected audience.
- Exposure to the use of technology in PR, particularly the Internet

Required Text

Method of Instruction
The primary methods of instruction will be class discussions, PowerPoint presentations of chapter material, our textbook, in/out of class activities/homework, possible guest speakers, and tests. These concepts will be supplemented by discussions of contemporary events and issues as well as by sample public relations materials.
Assignments

- Book Work and Quizzes: Chapter readings will be assigned and at the beginning of the next class there will frequently be quick quizzes on the assigned chapter. You need to be on time to class so you don’t miss questions. And these quizzes cannot be made up. Also in most chapters we cover you will be assigned to write/type a few paragraphs in response to many of the chapters’ Ethics on the Job scenarios. These short papers must be typed and double-spaced.

- Case Study Papers: Four two-to-three page double-spaced papers will be required. These will be due at the time (either the class before or after) of the four tests. The topics will be taken from the Case Activities at the end of each chapter and also, possibly, from events in the news. Mostly it will be your decision which of these case studies to write about. These papers must be supported by specific concepts and facts addressed in the book, not just all personal opinion. These receive letter grades. And to receive an A or A- the papers must be formatted in a professional business manner (to be discussed).

- Tests: Our four tests will be made up of material from the book, class lectures, possible speakers, and handouts will be utilized in these tests. The test will consist of multiple choice questions, true/false questions, short answer questions and terms/definitions (you are given the term, then you define). Study guides will be posted online one week before the exams.

- Extra Credit Opportunities: Writing about communication and PR-related events and speakers on and off campus can be turned in for extra credit if you write a paper about the person or event. Points can be added to your lowest scores by doing such extra credit work.

Attendance Policy

While roll will not be taken every class, there are penalties for late and incomplete work. Quizzes, homework and other day-to-day activities receive grades of check plus, check and check minus. These marks are totaled at semester’s end and the number will determine your grade for the quiz/homework part of the final grade breakdown (see below). Again, homework is not accepted via e-mail. Work turned in late receives an automatic check minus and a one letter grade reduction for letter grade work (accepted only one class period late). Repeated tardiness is very disruptive and inconsiderate!

Test Grading Scale and GPA Value:
A 94-100 (4.0); A- 90-93 (3.67); B+ 87-89 (3.33); B 83-86 (3.0); B- 80-82 (2.67); C+ 77-79 (2.33); C 73-76 (2.0); C- 70-72 (1.67); D+ 65-69 (1.33); D 60-64 (1.0); F 59 and under (0.0)

Final Grade Determination
Homework, quizzes, other assignments: 10 percent
Case Study Papers 10 percent
Four tests 80 percent
